Imagine your child is autistic and his "stemming" (tics or self-soothing technique) looks violent or makes him look like he's on drugs.

In an encounter with the police, his stemming could make it look like he was dangerous to the community or the officer.

Now imagine people training officers to make sure this scenario ends well... that is what the Blue Envelope program is all about!

RAC Taught Me

1. College Baseball Doesn't Pay

Contrary to popular belief, it is unlikely that your kid will receive a full ride scholarship for playing baseball. Colleges have very little money allotted for baseball scholarships. D3 schools do not even give athletic scholarships. D2 and D1 schools have a limited amount of scholarship money that must be divided between the entire roster. Most teams would rather split that money into a lot of small scholarships, because if they concentrated it in full rides they would only have enough to recruit about 11 players.

This makes full rides extremely rare. If your kid is able to get a baseball scholarship, odds are it will be closer to 30%. When you're shelling out $50,000 for tuition, 30% doesn't help that much. Your kid's best bet to receiving a full ride is to shoot for an academic scholarship.

2. An Elite Team ≠ Elite Development

Playing for a fancy travel ball team does not always mean good instruction. The mechanics of pitching and hitting are intricate, so it is essential that you find someone who knows what they're talking about. Otherwise, your kid's travel ball coach may do more harm than good.

If you can afford it, hire a coach with a good reputation. Want a cheaper option? Follow accounts like mine (Coach RAC) on social media.

Here are some other accounts worth following for excellent coaching:

HIGHGROVE HAPPENINGS

Know What Your Government is Up To

Today I am reminded why I let you know about bills in the legislature. You are busy. You may have a family to make money for and care for.

A full time California Legislator may get 1300-2000 bills come across their desk in a session. For Example the 2025-2026 session involves passing laws the first year and budgets the second. They don't have time to even read all of the bills! In my mind, passing something you haven't read is awful!

This led me to several questions - and to call Assemblywoman Castillo's Legislative Assistant for his advice on the best solutions for California.

My Questions:

*How can they represent us well if they don't read them?

* How can we know, then let them know what is important to us when we have such busy lives?

I'll leave you to answer questions two and three. But the two suggestions from Harrison Zea about changes to government structure that might help include:

1) Lowering the number of bills that each member of congress could present. Although the number was recently lowered from 40 bills per session to 35 bills, this helps but is not the perfect answer to our lawmaking woes... mainly because the party in control can waive that maximum at will. (California has 52 congressional seat. Only 9 of which are held by Republicans. This scheme by Gavin Newsom [Prop 50] would most likely eliminate 5 more...by-passing the non-partisan citizens committee that we voted for in 2010." Said Mark R. Root. FB follow him for more updates)

Harrison's second idea is:

2) Make the California Legislation part-time so they have less time to create issues;)

Your feedback is welcome!

3. Stop Coaching from the Stands

Yelling your coaching advice is making your kid a worse baseball player. You may know exactly what they need to hear. You may have the best advice on the planet. It is still counter productive to shout that advice from the stands. This is especially true when they are in high-pressure situations, like while batting or pitching.

In the middle of a game, the most important component to success is how a player handles pressure. There's enough pressure in a game without your voice. I've seen many kids scared of failing on the field because they feel that failure would let their parents down. Your goal as a parent should be to lower the pressure on your kid, not increase it. When players are scared to fail, they rarely play to their full potential.

If you really have some good advice, write it down. Wait until after the game, when they are not in the heat of the moment. Set aside some time later to share your advice, then give them time to work on it and practice.

Healthy Nerves for Proper Brain Connections

Little Charlie Abrahams had up to a 100 seizures a day. He'd sit in his dad, Jim's arms convulsing uncontrollably. His family had spent $100,000 on medications and doctors and hospitals that had done no good.

In 1934, John Hopkins University had a program that used a ketogenic diet to reverse seizures in children. In 1949 Milicent Kelly graduated with a degree from John Hopkins in Dietetics and Nutrition. Ms. Kelly worked with Dr. Livingston, whose primary focus was keto for children.

Once on the ketogenic diet, Milicent said, "His [Charlie's] seizures disappeared in two or three days!"

Nurses complained that it was too restrictive... but it was very effective!

Milicent Kelly explained that "If the body can't get energy from carbs, it uses fat...then ketone bodies are formed" that prevent seizures.

Children can't just fast as an adult can, but on keto they were soon able to cut back on their medications and become more alert and happy! "The children called it their 'magic diet...' I do well because I'm on my magic diet."

"That helps them stick with it...who wants to have seizures? To see children come in with seizures and leave with a smile is a joy you can't imagine." Milicent says with tears in her eyes.

She retired in 1990 but kept on as a private consultant for another eight years to help with families.

Jim Abrahams, Charlie's dad, was so angry that "this simple cure was such a secret."

He began to hold seminars for parents, doctors, and nurses explaining the diet and the amazing results he had seen.

He also started the Charlie Foundation.

His son Charlie became a healthy and strong adult, graduated college and plays piano beautifully.

Meryl Streep starred in the movie about his story, "First Do No Harm". She also attended the first inaugural ball for the Charlie Foundation along with Ms. Kelly.

[Editor's note: the study showing that

"breakfast is the most important meal of the day" mostly applies to children as they are growing. (Because children, pregnant and breastfeeding women shouldn't fast.)

But keto is a valuable intervention because it allows a person to take in nourishment without fasting.

Research shows this often stops seizures!]

Prop 13 Q & A

"We are so grateful for all the hard work your organization did to pass prop 13 in California so many years ago - it may be a big reason some of us can still live here!" I told Susan at the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association.

But I had to ask, If Prop 13 is "enshrined in our state constitution" why do we need to fight seemingly every election to keep it, and why do we need a new initiative to keep it?

"Thanks so much for writing. You're right that Proposition 13 is enshrined in the state constitution. Unfortunately for taxpayers, state courts have interpreted words and phrases in the state constitution to mean something other than what they meant or were intended to mean. For example, Prop. 13 requires a two-thirds vote for all local special taxes, and a court ruling in the 1980s defined "special" to mean only some local taxes — those that were dedicated to a specified purpose. "General" taxes, the court ruled, only needed a simple majority.

In the 1990s, several court rulings undercut Prop. 13's ban on real estate transfer taxes. The rulings held that charter cities, which have their own local constitutions and more autonomy than "general law" cities, could enact transfer taxes as long as the revenue was for a general purpose.

In 2017, the state Supreme Court used ambiguous language in California Cannabis Coalition v. City of Upland to suggest that if a tax increase is put on the ballot by a citizens' initiative instead of a government body (a city council, for example), then the constitution may not apply, and neither does Prop. 13's requirement for a two-thirds vote. This giant loophole was then expanded in the appellate courts, citing the Upland decision.

The Local Taxpayer Protection Act to Save Proposition 13 bans and repeals real estate transfer taxes and makes clear that the two-thirds vote requirement for local special taxes applies even if the tax increase is put on the ballot by a citizens' initiative.

This is the latest battle in a nearly 50-year war

Have you read this bill? Prop 50 DELETES the part of the California Constitution that gave the people the right to draw lines (The Citizens' Redistricting Commission) after each census.

Did you know that Prop 50 would change California's Constitution?! I never heard that in a commercial. Don't let representatives draw their own lines! It looks like a kid wrote "delete" on an official document(!)

Pictured below, but feel free to check the website and see for yourself!

Ever heard of the Voter's First Act of 2008?

Californians passed it to make sure our district lines were drawn without bias. Ballotpedia says the history of Prop 11 is: "California Proposition 11... supported transferring the legislative redistricting power from elected representatives to a 14-member commission; establishing a process for selecting commissioners; and requiring a supermajority vote to approve redistricting map. VOTE NO on 50 - Don't let representatives set their own district lines again! Keep the citizens commission!

Boy Scout Troop Receives (Cont. From Front P.) trailer of all the camping gear they had accumulated over many years.

A much-needed Grant was provided by the California Lions Foundation and facilitated by the Grand Terrace Lions Club.

With the $500 grant they purchased essential camping equipment – including propane camp stove, griddle, camping cooking table and other outdoor essentials to support the units' ongoing outdoor programs.

"We're thankful to the Grand Terrace Lions Club and the California Lions Foundation for recognizing the importance of Scouting and stepping in to help."

"The grant is a great example of how Lions make a real difference," said Jayna Ramirez, President of the Grand Terrace Lions Club.

Troop 40 and Pack 242 serve the Grand Terrace and surrounding area and are chartered by Grand Terrace Lions Club.

The Scouts regularly participate in service projects, outdoor adventures, and character-building activities that foster leadership and responsibility.

"Attorney Tom Renz just dropped a monster thread revealing how Digital ID is already here—woven quietly into a series of carefully crafted laws and regulations." - Vigilant Fox Substack

"He explains that its implementation isn't driven by one sweeping law, but by subtle updates to existing policies rooted in the Patriot Act."

(Tom Renz's Newsletter For God, family, and Country - The fight against corruption. Substack)

Editor's note: I'm seeing this "carefully crafted, multiple law, tiny change in laws to create big disruption" agenda frequently lately.

Disappointed to find that both sides of the aisle voted yes on AB715 and SB48 and the governor signed them into law. (see article ->)

When I called our Assemblyperson and her Sacramento Legislative Assistant, "the Caucus said, 'yes'" (and it seems we weren't supposed to find out about it.)

Sad to think that there is one ideology running the show - it should scare people on both sides to get involved and make a difference.

"There are Californians who are relying on Republicans getting their [*%$!] together and actually ... (be) a functioning, opposition party," DeMaio said. "They're not, they haven't been, and it's gotten worse and worse each year. They know how to surrender versus fight."

Who knows, you may meet some new friends as well as make a difference for your family!

Protect Your Family in Light of New Laws

Imagine you are a family in California. You and your husband have two children that you adore and they are elementary school age. Both of you have to work to afford your home, cars and groceries. You are very busy with children's activities and don't have time to pay attention to politics.

But now, a bill has passed that makes it illegal for a traditional family of four to be the only family represented in the textbooks. Doesn't seem like a big deal... but then you take a step back to look at the big picture of what has become law this year.

In the name of stopping "hate and antisemitism" AB715 passed. but when you read the parts actually put into the Education code (SB48), it says that taxpayers pay for a new, unelected (appointed by the Governor) official that oversees the school districts to make sure LGBTQ is taught in schools.

Ok. Maybe that's not so bad.

Except the Governor Newsom just passed into law AB495...I gave details last month, but it basically means that a non-relative can take your child out of school without your permission and take control of their "health care" (code for "gender-affirming" surgery?)

First the children in private and charter (yes, the new law specifies charter schools) get programmed to think they should be another sex, then the parents are taken out of the decision-making process.

Please pray about finding a way to privately homeschool your children! Some families can cut back on an extra car, gas and child care that having both parents work requires... then they can watch God move in answer to their prayers to provide for their young family.

Sounds like a pipe dream? It is exactly what we did to homeschool our children in the early 2000's. We don't regret it. (and I'm willing to give suggestions on how we did it, if you ask.)

But if nothing changes, will you regret leaving them in school?

Our Constitution was designed for a moral and religious people and is wholly inadequate to govern any other...- John Adams

"When people stop talking, that's when you get violence."

"The weak can never forgive. Forgiveness is the attribute of the strong. The only way out of the labyrinth of suffering is to forgive. Welcome without judgment, love without condition, forgive without limit. Always forgive your enemies. Nothing annoys them so much."

"When things are moving very fast and people are losing their minds, it's important to stay grounded. Turn off your phone, read scripture, spend time with friends, and remember, internet fury is not real life."

"When you stop having a human connection with someone you disagree with, it becomes a lot easier to commit violence. What we as a culture have to get back to is being able to have reasonable agreement where violence is not an option."

- Utah Governor quoting Charlie Kirk's words

The Word says, *Love God and Love people (even enemies)

*"all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." but

* "...God so loved the world that He gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in Him shall not perish but have eternal life." John 3:16
